

TOWN ASKED TO DOUBLE WAR SAVINGS

HE TAKES WINGS

The first "trainee" to leave the Newmarket training camp after it was established a little over a year ago was Victor LeGear of Barrie, who joined the air force and has now, at a recent ceremony, received his wings.

WILL BE RECTOR

Rev. E. S. Otley, B.A., L.Th., of Streetsville, is to be the new rector of St. Paul's Anglican church, in succession to Rev. A. J. Patstone, who goes to Stayner.

Mr. Otley visited Newmarket this afternoon, making arrangements with church officials.

East Gwillimbury Begins Savings Drive

A well-attended meeting at Queensville yesterday evening started off the war savings campaign in East Gwillimbury township.

W. L. Bosworth of Newmarket, Newmarket and East Gwillimbury co-chairman, and G. B. Thompson of Holland Landing will head the campaign.

POP'S CHICKEN PIE PLANT IS SUCCESS TALE

VISITOR HAS MADE 50,000 CHICKEN PIES IN 120 WEEKS

HE'S SOLD THEM TOO

Cape Cod's chicken pie king, "Pop" O'Brien is visiting the land of his birth. In his 82nd year, he has become famed throughout the U.S.A. only in the last ten years. And only in these last ten years, he considers, has he had any outstanding success.

But that is not to say that he is wealthy. Wealth is not his idea of success. His idea of success is personally making 50,000 chicken pies in ten seasons of 12 weeks each and knowing that the public will be back at his booth next season clamoring for more of "Pop" O'Brien's chicken pies.

Born in Stouffville, he was known as Edmund in his youth, carried on as "E. A. O'Brien" for most of his years and has finally bloomed into fame as "Pop." He is visiting his sister, Mrs. W. J. Thompson, Newmarket.

A hurried trip through "Pop's" first 70 years on this earth shows that he went to Chicago as a young man, and was employed there in the wholesale boot and shoe business, and was next employed at Brockton, Mass., for "years and years" as a cloth cutter, a trade he picked up easily because he had been "a great fellow to use a jackknife, and to whittle."

Mr. O'Brien started a clothing factory in Cape Cod and was "burnt out," was in the retail grocery and meat business until a chain store arrived across the street and made things too tough for him, managed a pants and shirt factory in Walkerville, Ont., for 16 years, returned to Cape Cod, did various things, including raising chickens.

Ten years ago Mr. O'Brien had 1,700 chickens in his backyard, and just then poultry prices went to pieces. Talking things over with Mrs. O'Brien, a Cape Cod girl, who is with him on his present trip, he wondered if he could sell his chickens by the chicken pie route.

Mrs. O'Brien baked the first 21 pies, and "Pop," as he was soon to be known, sold them in ten minutes to vacationists. The following Saturday he sold 100 pies, and 200 a week for the remainder of the summer.

Since then the business has grown by leaps and bounds. This past summer he sold 7,481 pies, fashioned out of between 600 and 800 chickens. He also sold 1,500 blueberry pies this summer.

He has a booth called "Pop's Pie Plant." He makes all the pies himself, working 16 hours a day during the 12-week season. He employs one girl in the booth. Another man operates his chicken farm for him. He winters 1,000 layers.

With each small pie (to serve two persons) he gives an extra cup (paper) of gravy and with each large pie (to serve five persons) he gives two extra cups of gravy. The small pies (six-inch) go out on a paper plate for 40 cents each, and the large pies (nine-inch) go out for $1.10 on the tin plate in which they were cooked, with a ten cents rebate for returning the plate.

People from every state in the union have bought Mr. O'Brien's pies. And people, with the desire to go and do likewise, have asked him for his recipes and advice. He has tried to give all the help he could to everybody, but he says "there was a time when I thought I would have to (Page 2, Col. 4)

Newmarket Will Not Fail!

Nowhere on this side of the Atlantic can there be found a group of 4,000 people more anxious to do their part to win the war, or ready to do more, or to make greater sacrifices, than the citizens of the town of Newmarket.

Newmarket people realize that for them the war is just starting. There have been sacrifices. There have been demands, and cheerful response, for money for auxiliary services, war victims, soldiers overseas, war loans and war savings.

But the war cannot be allowed to go on forever. Allied peoples everywhere are doubling their efforts. Allied peoples in occupied countries, in spite of meagre food and clothing allowances, are known to be risking and incurring reprisals by slow-down strikes, sabotage of the German war effort, and resistance to the German conquerors.

The people of Russia are fighting for their very existence. The people of embattled Britain are making use of their present respite to increase their industrial efforts and to speed military preparations for the struggle which they see ahead. There is nothing that they will not do, no sacrifice too great, no toil too arduous, in the task of fighting for a peaceful world.

The people of Newmarket too are prepared to do their utmost. The people of Newmarket early this year pledged themselves to the magnificent total of $7,000 monthly in war savings certificates. Perhaps as a result of the war loan drive, or summer holidays, this monthly amount has fallen to $5,000.

That $5,000 is no small contribution to Canada's war effort. That money, loaned to the government, is sufficient to buy one universal carrier a month. It will not necessarily be used in that specific way of course, but it will be used to speed Hitler's downfall, and the dawn of a new day.

Now Newmarket is asked—and a small committee of Newmarket citizens have taken it upon themselves to say that this town will not fail—to lend sufficient money to buy two universal carriers a month. Newmarket citizens are asked to lend in this way, not $5,000, but $10,000.

Obviously that means the doubling of the subscriptions of most people. That means getting some new subscribers. That means real sacrifice. That means cutting down on little luxuries, pleasures and even necessities.

But these sacrifices are small compared with the sacrifices which those in the front line, civilians, soldiers, sailors, airmen, are making. Newmarket boys are giving up years of their lives, are indeed offering their lives, in this fight. The home folks are only asked to give and, this time, to lend.

Volunteer canvassers—most of them busy men who are giving their time gladly to forward this great drive—are going to make an effort to contact all the people of Newmarket to find out what each can do to increase his war savings. However, it is hoped that most people will have increased their war savings before the canvasser reaches them or even if the canvasser misses them.

And remember Canada is not asking for war savings for just one month, but for "the duration." Canada does not ask for soldiers for just one month, but for "the duration." Canada asks the people of Newmarket to lend all they can, to pull their belts in all they can, month after month, and, if necessary, year after year, until the job is finished.

ESTEEMED RESIDENT OF VANDORF DIES

One of the best known and most highly esteemed residents of Whitechurch, Ralph Willis of Vandorf died in York county hospital on Monday morning, after an illness of several weeks.

Born in Whitechurch township, on Sept. 2, 1874, he was the son of Annie Bowerman and William Willis. On Sept. 25, 1912, he married Mary E. Michael. Mr. Willis had lived in the Vandorf district all his life, where he farmed. He was a member of the Friends church and in politics was a Liberal.

Surviving are his widow, four daughters, Mary, Anne (Mrs. H. B. Reid), Ruth, all of Toronto, Elsie Jean, at home, and one son, Edward, at home.

Funeral services were held at the residence on Wednesday afternoon and at Pine Orchard Union church. The services were conducted by Rev. J. A. Koffend. Interment was made in Pine Orchard cemetery.

The many beautiful floral tributes indicated the esteem in which Mr. Willis was held by a wide circle of friends. The pallbearers were Chas.

BOXING BOUTS DRAW CAMP BORDEN CONVOY

Newmarket's Main St. was crowded when a convoy of trucks from Camp Borden, with motorcycle escort, arrived here for the boxing bouts last evening.

Soldiers formed up in the town square and marched to the arena to music provided by the Citizens' band.

Sgt. George Barbour of the R.C.A.F., Toronto, was the referee for the nine or ten bouts. The Barbour kids put on another fine bout. Lieut. R. A. Ross represented the Newmarket training camp as a judge.

Among those present were a group of English officers in "civvies" returning home from the U.S.A., where they took special training on the latest type of American tanks.

The show lasted until after midnight, and the British War Victims' Fund was the beneficiary.

Sgt. McAllister of Camp Borden was the announcer. Mary Rose, Wm. Kingdon, Jas. Oliver, Harry Sproton, Elmer Starr and Jas. Hope.

USE HALL AS CLUB, LATER AS LIBRARY

MIGHT BE USED AS TOWN CLERK'S OFFICE TOO, IS THOUGHT

DECIDE TO BUY

The I.O.O.F. hall has been definitely offered to the town for $2,000 by the lodge and interested shareholders, Deputy-Reeve Joseph Vale stated today.

If the library board approves, at a meeting to be held Friday evening, the town will make the purchase. The purchase money will come from the Edgar Bogart estate residue, amounting to $2,100, which was bequeathed to the town towards a library building.

Out of the $2,000 the I.O.O.F. will have to reimburse the tax sale purchaser, Miss B. E. Lyons, to the amount of $646, for arrears of taxes, and will have to pay current taxes of $221.

The hall will be used as a soldier-citizen club for the duration of the war and subsequently as a library.

Henry Sennett is chairman and H. M. Gladman is secretary of the library board.

If title to the Oddfellows' hall can be obtained, the town will purchase it for use now as a soldiers' clubhouse and use after the war as a town library, it was decided at a town council meeting on Monday evening.

Deputy-Reeve Joseph Vale presented the library idea, as Councillor A. D. Evans, and gave his hearty approval. Mr. Vale said that it could be purchased for $2,000, and that as a substantial amount of taxes was owing the town's cash outlay would be small. He reminded the council that money from the Edgar Bogart estate would be available toward a library building.

"It would make a wonderful library," said Mr. Vale. "Our town library has a circulation of 30,000 volumes a year, and is an important institution."

"We didn't want to spend $400 or $500 on the hall, to fix it up as a soldiers' club, and then after a month or two find ourselves put out," said Councillor Wm. Dixon.

"When the Oddfellows' hall was built the shareholders put up $3,000 and the lodge put up $3,000," said Reeve F. A. Lundy. "So if they accept $2,000 they would get one-third of their investment. They ask if the town would forgo its taxes. They say the town wouldn't really lose anything."

"The basement would make an excellent clerk's office," suggested Mr. Evans.

"Yes, we could sell this whole block then," said Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales. "Put through a resolution to buy the hall."

While the building was sold at a tax sale, it can still be redeemed by the Oddfellows.

"Too fast," commented Councillor J. L. Spillette.

"It might be bought for less than $2,000 but we are trying to be fair," replied Dr. Dales.

"We might buy it for less and still be fair," said Mr. Spillette.

"We know it can't be bought for less than $2,000," said Councillor Wm. Dixon.

"What will it cost to put it in shape?" asked Mr. Spillette.

"Five hundred dollars," said Mr. Vale.

"Oh no, you couldn't fix the roof, and the basement, and everything for that," said Mr. Spillette.

"We're paying $300 a year rent now for the present library," said Dr. Dales. "Six years would pay for this building. There is nothing the matter with the proposition."

"Paid" Circulation In Town Of 800 Homes Is 507 - Total 1,370

Week By Week Average Circulation Verified By A.B.C. Audit Will Be Published Next Week

The people of Newmarket take pride in the recognition The Newmarket Era has achieved as a community newspaper.

Some people are inclined to measure these achievements in terms of prizes, but the publishers of The Era and others in the publishing field feel that The Era's greatest achievement has been in the circulation field.

The Era is strictly paid-in-advance, and, as a result of the hearty co-operation of the reading public, this system is proving a success. Old subscribers who overlook renewing and are "cut off" are not offended. They just renew. They regard it as their mistake, not the publishers'.

Not only is it more satisfactory to subscribers that they should not be allowed to get into debt for their local newspaper, but it means a lot to advertisers that the circulation they are paying for should be paid circulation. They say that if the subscriber has renewed, he is interested and is reading the newspaper. If he hasn't renewed, if he hasn't paid, he may have lost interest, and may not be reading the newspaper.

The Era has gone still farther, for the publishers' own information, and for the information of advertisers, and has joined the Audit Bureau of Circulations (A. B. C.). This independent outside firm makes a periodic audit of The Era's books and demands periodic statements of average paid circulation.

And these auditors make a real check. They demand to see duplicates of subscription records. (Page 5A, Col. 6)

Incinerator Suggestion Results From Dump Fire

LINGERING FIRE AT TOWN DUMP IS PROBLEM TO COUNCIL

Residents in the vicinity of Queen St. were particularly favored last week when refuse at the town garbage dump caught fire and sent forth a spray of obnoxious perfume and smoke. It is debatable whether the fire, which started last week, was due to sparks from the incinerator, or the train, or to combustion.

At a meeting of the town council on Monday evening Deputy-Reeve Joseph Vale wanted to know if the board of health had looked into the "nuisance from the dump."

"Four or five of us went down there," stated Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales. "I think something different has to be done than is being done."

"There hasn't been a fire there in two years," stated Councillor William Dixon. He advised the council that he had inquired of people in the vicinity and learned that the fire had started near the railroad tracks. He was of the opinion that if the place had been carefully watched and the fire noticed in its early stages it could have been put under control.

"If people would only report fires there," stated Mayor Dales. "I think a reward should be given to anyone who reports a fire there."

"You don't know human nature, Mr. Mayor," smiled Mr. Dixon. "Why I might even be tempted to set fires there myself in order to get a reward."

When told that the dump was under the jurisdiction of the medical officer of health, Mayor Dales stated, "I think that is wrong. I think it should be under some member of the council. I want a resolution putting it back in the hands of a member of the council."

"I think the incinerator is too near the bank and too open," stated Dr. J. H. Wesley, M.O.H. "It looks to me to be the easiest thing for the dump to take fire. There should be some way to get water at it, which there is not."

"I think to do anything satisfactory about the fire would involve a lot of work," commented Mayor Dales. "If we did anything it would be to dig a ditch eight feet deep and this would involve a lot of work and water. It would cost over $500. We thought if the people would be patient and put up with it for a few days it would burn itself out. If a covering of dirt is put on it twice a week we won't have combustion and fires."

The council passed the motion of Councillor Arthur Evans that the dump be placed under the property committee with the co-operation of the medical officer. "This will take a lot of unnecessary trouble off the shoulders of the medical officer," stated Mayor Dales.

Mayor Dales suggested that the Weller Construction Co., on completion of the reservoir job, be asked for a price on building a small incinerator with left-over materials which it has on hand.

World Alliance Secretary Peppered With Questions

TELLS PICKERING STUDENTS OF VISITS TO GERMAN PRISON CAMPS

Conditions in the prison camps of Europe and Canada, the Geneva convention regarding prisoners of war, and the reaction of the 4 to 6,000,000 prisoners of war to their life of monotony, were described by Tracy Strong, Geneva, Switzerland, general secretary of the World Alliance of Y.M.C.A.'s, at Pickering College on Sunday evening.

Mr. Strong was accompanied by Abel J. Gregg, national boys' work secretary of Y.M.C.A.'s of the U.S., and by Taylor Statten, Toronto, director of vocational guidance at Pickering College, and chairman of the World's Alliance boys' work committee.

Mr. Strong asked that his remarks not be reported in the press.

The Y.M.C.A. carries on its work in all belligerent countries, and Mr. Strong visits German camps as well as Canadian and other camps.

The students threw interesting questions at Mr. Strong such as, "When a prisoner is awarded a commission by his own country, is he transferred to an officers' camp?" "What games do they play in prison camps?" "Is an officer prisoner entitled to buy new uniforms?" "Does he get new insignia if he is promoted?" "Which government pays the officers, their own government or the government detaining them?"

Other interesting questions answered were: "Is it the duty of a prisoner to try to escape?" "Why are prisoners in Canada treated so well?"

In expressing thanks to the speaker, Headmaster Joseph McCulley remarked that "perhaps the greatest tragedy of war is that man has channels of communication shut off with his fellow man."

Young York Plowmen Take Prizes At Peterboro Match

BOYS DO WELL IN BOTH HORSE AND TRACTOR EVENTS

The plow boys of York county as usual captured a good share of the prizes at the International Plowing Match at Peterboro last week.

This applied to both horse and tractor classes in both boys' and open classes, with most of the former York contestants in the money and a number of new aspirants for provincial honors.

In the boys' class on Wednesday York county, for the third successive year, won the coveted watch donated by Hon. P. M. Dewar, when Russell Watson, son of Robert Watson of Woodbridge, plowed the best land by a boy under 18. This had been won the past two years by Bert Irwin of Agincourt, now graduated. Russell also was spare boy on the inter-county tractor team, which won ninth and second on Thursday and Friday respectively.

In the inter-county walking plows York county was fourth, with 17 counties entered, each team having three boys. York was represented by Leslie Smith, Gormley; Herb Jarvis, Agincourt; and Bert Irwin, Agincourt. Les and Herb also won prizes on the other days of the match.

York juniors came into their own when the inter-county tractor team, consisting of Bobby Timbers of Stouffville and Murray Timbers of Locust Hill, won first place in a field of nine counties. As a result the James McLean memorial trophy will be displayed for the next year in the office of their coach, W. M. Cockburn, agricultural representative, at Newmarket.

The boys each received a miniature from John McLean at the banquet and Bobby brought home a cabinet of silver donated by F. G. Fuller for the best land in the inter-county class. Both boys had won prizes in the tractor classes on Wednesday and

REJECTION BADGES

Is the giving of badges to those who are refused for active service a good idea? It seems that the department of national defence intends to follow this practice. In its favor is to be said that the man who has tried to get into active service and has failed deserves some recognition, although most people in that category will be satisfied with the knowledge that they have done their duty as they saw it.

If the government adopts the plan, it will be as a method of stimulating recruiting, we think, and not as a recognition for those who have tried and failed to get into the army. No thoughtful government department could adopt such a plan just as a means of being fair to the rejected, for the rejection badges would do far more injustice than justice. Let's think of some of the difficulties that would be encountered.

There are two general classes of persons who could qualify for these badges, those who know of their disabilities before they enlist and those who don't. Those who know that they will be rejected can hardly offer their services and waste the time of recruiting officers and medical examiners just for the sake of gaining a rejection badge.

Or those who have disabilities may be divided into those whose disabilities can be laid at their own doorstep and those whose disabilities are not their own fault. In the first group would come those whose health had been destroyed through too strenuous or immoderate living and many victims of venereal disease. Would these men who had not been good enough citizens to take care of their own health be entitled to wear service badges?

There are other difficulties for such a badge plan. After all, how many men would want to wear such a badge? The badge would proclaim: "I am not physically fit. I tried to get into the army but couldn't."

More than that, the badge plan really amounts to an attempt to pin bad citizenship upon the healthy man who hasn't enlisted, and that man may have good reason for not enlisting. He may be doing more useful work right where he is than he could do in the army, or he may have more than two children and the government has already said that it doesn't want men with more than two children and is not prepared to pay dependents' allowances for more than two children.

There is really no good reason for trying to put an imaginary uniform on the man who has been rejected. After all, he isn't working for $1.30 a day and his keep. He may be drawing fancy pay in a munitions factory or he may be learning a trade or profession that will put him ahead of the soldier in the competitive struggle that will follow the war. The man in uniform may be called upon to throw his life away in a moment, and he alone is entitled to rank as a soldier and wear a service badge, no matter how much the rejected man might like to be a soldier too or no matter how useful a job he may be performing in civilian life.

The way to get recruits is not to try to pin "white feathers" on others but to honor the soldier and promise him, with legislation passed now, the generous deal that the veterans of the last war did not get. Mr. King should also make a clear declaration of war aims, placing Canada foursquare for a new and better League of Nations or other system of world government. Men want to know what they are fighting for.

MUNICIPAL DOCTOR PLAN

There is a hymn which advises us to do our best "right in the corner where you are." It is not necessary to sit in the seats of the mighty to accomplish great things. In fact, it often seems to us that those who sit in parliament, for instance, have less influence than many of their fellow citizens outside of that august assembly. When Agnes Macphail lost the M. P. after her name in the course of the last parliamentary cross-country run we thought it a tragedy, for Agnes Macphail had done a number of things in parliament.

In the first place, she had shown us all that a woman could be just as capable a representative as a man, she had effectively brought before parliament and the country the plight of the farmer, she had given able leadership in the movement for old age pensions, she had spoken for youth, the unemployed and the under-dog. She was chiefly responsible for the appointment of a penitentiaries commission which made sweeping recommendations for modernizing our prison methods.

In spite of all the influence she had, however, we raise the question whether she isn't exerting more influence today through her column in the Toronto Globe and Mail. The speech of a parliamentarian may gain wide attention and support but it is sure to arouse opposition as well. The parliamentarian is always suspected of being a politician—and a politician is one who is more interested in self or party than in principles or country. The journalist, however, is judged on the merits or demerits of what he writes.

No one could read without interest Miss Macphail's article on Saturday on the "municipal doctor plan." It is really a form of health insurance, for all citizens contribute to the doctor's salary regardless of any call they make on his services. The doctor is just as well paid if nobody gets sick as if there were an epidemic, and it is therefore in his interests to try to keep people well. Miss Macphail told of the widespread adoption of this plan for a salaried doctor for township, village or town in western Canada, and about present discussion of such a plan in Osprey township, Grey county.

It takes time to bring about progressive moves. Journalists have a great opportunity to write interestingly about such plans as the municipal doctor plan and to arouse public interest. Even a parliamentarian can do no more than get things moving. Miss Macphail started the prison reform ball rolling perhaps ten years or more ago, but it is said that the recommendations of the royal commission of inquiry have not been extensively carried out yet.

LETTERS FROM LONDON

Letters from Hugh Templin, publisher of the Fergus News-Record, while he was in Britain with a group of Canadian journalists at the invitation of the British government, are more than interesting. We will not try to re-write what Mr. Templin has written so well. Here are a few paragraphs taken from his own newspaper:

"We walked around the worst streets. In a way I was prepared for it, and yet I wasn't. It was appalling. My stomach began to feel hollow. And the effect is heightened by the fact that St. Paul's stands up almost untouched in the midst of this desolation."

"I visited a house in Caversham, a beautiful suburb of Reading. The house was large with a conservatory and a tennis court, besides a beautiful large garden, and behind that an orchard and vegetable garden with a greenhouse for the tomatoes and cucumbers. I tried to get a meal in the pub, but it was closed. I suggested that I find something to eat in the city and call again. Another shock, one cannot buy anything to eat, particularly on Sunday, in the small cities."

"My friend insisted on taking me back to his beautiful house. We all ate together and I was ashamed to consume their meat, which is severely rationed. They even insisted that I eat at least one of their precious home-grown apples, which was good."

"When I was leaving, they called a taxi for me at 10 o'clock to return to the station. When the driver learned who I was, he went back to his house and got his wife out to talk to me and she was interesting too. At the station, he steered me through the black-out (which isn't as black as in London), to the train—and then absolutely refused to take a penny from me. Such kindness and hospitality leave me not only flabbergasted but humble."

"We are very busy these days. These British people have been marvellously kind to us. Apparently trouble—and a common cause—make us brothers. We find ourselves in rather a strange position. Because we came from Canada, and represent that country, and particularly because we came by air, we are Somebody."

"On Tuesday we were conducted through the houses of parliament. The building as a whole is not badly damaged, but the house of commons chamber has completely dissolved in fire and smoke. There is literally nothing of it left. Such things happen frequently enough."

"Yesterday, Wednesday, we went to Coventry. It is quite a large city. We were greeted in the city hall, still mostly standing. From there, we went out to the centre of the city, and the great cathedral. Coventry is appalling. You can't imagine what it is like."

"Last night, we ate supper at a bomber station, but it was too foggy for the planes to set out for Germany. One thrill, lost. We returned to London, stopping three hours at Cambridge to see the university."

"Incidentally, we get plenty to eat except butter, which we really don't miss. There are no candles, eggs, or milk to drink. No pop or lemonade, and such like. But there is plenty to eat and most of it good. (A war-time sausage, however, is an amazing thing.)"

"We have completed a most strenuous week. All telling time. The past two days have been most interesting. On Friday, I lunched with Gen. Odum, commander of the 2nd Canadian Division, and his generals and other high officers."

"Some of us went to the office of the Daily Express. A German plane came in the first air-raid since we arrived—but it never reached the city, according to the official report. Certainly I never saw it, but from the roof of the Express office, along with two fire-watchers in tin hats, I stayed for an hour, watching the far-off gun fire."

"Saturday, we went to an R.C.A.F. fighter squadron. First person I met was Dr. Burnett of Durham. He took me to Ian Stewart, who is at that station now and a number of other boys from nearby. WHAT OTHERS THINK

A SUGGESTION OF MERIT

(Newmarket Express-Herald)

Rumor has it the past few days that options have been taken on several of the large buildings on the Main Street, but if there is any truth in these reports your editor cannot say. The following editorial from the Hudson Weekly Reporter, (Toronto), brought in by one of our local business men, points out a bad loop-hole in the present licensing system.

We have seen countless cases of businesses offered for sale through the medium of various newspapers, but observant readers of the classified sections of the daily press must have been a bit mystified one evening last week to note therein an advertisement which announced that the King George Hotel, Newmarket, was NOT for sale. We are, of course, pretty well used to all curious quirks in the advertising game, but we must confess that we felt a bit mystified over this advertisement until we accidentally learned that the people of Newmarket are to vote in a few days on the repeal of the present local option by-law in the town and if such repeal is carried, the license which will go to this hotel would be worth many dollars. Hence the anxiety of a lot of would-be purchasers to take a long chance on buying the property. This incident seems to agitate our present system of issuing beverage room licenses. Two or three of these will probably be handed out in a town the size of Newmarket at a nominal yearly license fee, only to change hands again in a few days at a profit of thousands of dollars. This unearned increment comes as the result of the government creating virtual monopolies in the beer and wine business and handing such monopolies over to private individuals for a song. Why not have the first licenses issued in a municipality placed at a price to be gauged by the earnings of similar institutions in other places of similar size, and the future annual licenses based strictly on the business done and the profits made? If this was done the people at large instead of a few favored individuals would benefit from our present licensing system."

WHAT CONSCRIPTION REALLY MEANS

(Midland Free Press Herald)

That a dissatisfied Canada is calling for conscription because it wants a more whole-hearted war effort on the part of the dominion government is the assertion of the Winnipeg Tribune. We are still a long way short of being 100 per cent efficient. There are bottlenecks everywhere which are interfering with production in munitions plants, aeroplane factories and shipyards.

Says the Tribune: "The demand for conscription now being heard from one end of Canada to the other is in reality a demand for a war effort of maximum effectiveness. The need for men overseas is part of the picture, the need for total mobilization of Canada's capacity to produce guns, trucks, tanks, ships and planes is quite as urgent. We need both trained men and machines."

"Actually, the government does not know how many machinists are walking the streets, or to what extent Canada's war industries can be further speeded up. The problem of getting every able-bodied Canadian on the job which he can do best is left to the ingenuity—and the luck—of the individual Canadian."

"Call it conscription, national service or any other name, the rationalization of Canada's war effort, industrial and military, is long overdue."

YOUNG CHIPS' WATCHFULNESS IS REWARDED

BY RUTH DINGMAN HEBB

"That sounds like him now," exclaimed Young Chips, the Chickadee, to Slaty, the Junco, who was hopping happily about on the grass below the Chickadee's tree.

"Sounds like whom?" inquired Slaty, and he fluttered his pretty white tail-feathers as he spoke.

"The Fox Sparrow, my dear Junco," replied the Chickadee. "I've asked you if you'd seen him the last two or three mornings. Had you forgotten? Merry Chickadee and I have been watching for him to arrive here from the north for the past week or so. We don't know for sure whether we'll see him, of course, but this is the time to expect him to pass through here and we hope to get a glimpse of him. Listen, I thought I heard that unusual voice again."

"It is an exceptionally clear, sweet voice, isn't it?" said Slaty. "We might as well go over towards those bushes and see if that's who it is."

"Yes," agreed the Chickadee. "And I think we'll find a Fox Sparrow all right. They are beautiful singers, you know. In fact, they are quite noted for their voices, but the difficulty is that we so seldom hear them sing, as they do most of it away up north where they nest and bring up their families. In the autumn we hear snatches sometimes, such as now."

"Here we are," announced Slaty as they reached the tangle of bushes. "Let's look carefully. Both birds peered about with their bright eyes."

"There he is," Chips suddenly called across to Slaty. "Right down near the ground to the right. And he's a Fox Sparrow, sure enough."

"How do you know?" asked Slaty. "Oh, yes, I see him now myself."

"I know he's a Fox Sparrow because he has a bright, reddish brown back, wings and tail, especially bright on the lower part of his back and tail and with grey showing through on his head and neck. Yes, and now I can see, when he turns around so obligingly, that below he is white, heavily streaked with reddish brown. He's really quite quite a distinguished-looking bird."

"You can easily see why he is called the Fox Sparrow, can't you?" remarked Slaty as they continued to study him. "That reddish brown is just like the color of the Red Fox."

"What are you two fellows staring at me so hard for?" the Sparrow inquired when he noticed the two friends so close to him.

"My Chickadee friend here was very anxious not to miss your visit to the Newmarket district," explained Slaty. "He thought he heard that lovely voice of yours, so we came right over."

"Yes, I've been expecting you for several days now," said the Chickadee cordially. "I hope you will be staying with us for a little visit."

"Oh, I expect I'll hang around a day or two," replied the Sparrow, coming over near the others where he could talk more easily. "And if I don't, you may see some of my relatives, because we'll all be passing through here this month, I expect."

"Did you have a nice summer?" asked Young Chips.

"Splendid," said the Sparrow. "We were away up almost to James Bay this year and got along very well. I nested in Labrador last year. And now we're on our way back to Florida for the winter."

"You certainly do a lot of travelling," said the Chickadee admiringly. "It must be very interesting to see so much of the world."

"Yes, but the travelling isn't all fun," sighed the Sparrow. "Sometimes I wish I was like you and didn't go in for it much. I want to get well fattened up before I do much more of it. Have you seen any nice fruit around here that I could start on?"

"Why not eat insects or weed seeds instead of fruit?" suggested the Junco.

"Oh, they're fine, too, but we Fox Sparrows do like a little fruit to vary our diet a bit," said the fox-colored Sparrow. "They say that we like fruit better than most of the Sparrow family. But then, there's never much but a bit of wild fruit around at this time of year, so the farmers can't hold anything against us."

"I had forgotten that you were as big as you are," said Young Chips to the Fox Sparrow. "Why, you're bigger than either my Junco friend or myself."

"Yes, I'm bigger than most of my Sparrow cousins," replied the visitor, "and that includes Slaty here, because he's a Sparrow, too. And I'm a good deal bigger than you little Chickadees," he added.

"Oh, we aren't ashamed of our size," Young Chips put in hastily. "We figure that being small we can get around more quickly. But that reminds me that I must go and find Merry, my wife, and bring her over to see you. Excuse me, will you? I'll be back in a few minutes. That is, I will if my mate isn't gadding about somewhere out-of-town with some of her giddy friends."

engage a stenographer to answer all the letters."

One letter asking him where to obtain the vegetable coloring matter for the gravy followed him to Newmarket.

Well, the ladies will be interested in Pop's recipe. Let Pop tell you.

"The best chicken for pie is not a chicken at all but a hen that weighs about seven pounds," says Pop. "Such a bird will make eight to ten small pies. There are no vegetables in my pies."

"The dressed chicken is cut up as for stewing and made ready for cooking in a kettle. First, two onions for each chicken are cut up finely and placed in the bottom of the kettle. Salt, pepper, celery salt and poultry seasoning are added. Then the chicken goes in and water to cover it."

"Cook the chicken for two to seven hours depending upon the age of the bird. It should come off the bones easily but should not be cooked too much."

"Now to make the pie dough. One cup of lard or equal parts of lard and chicken grease, six cups of flour, two heaping teaspoons of baking powder, and one cup of water. The shortening I cut fine with a wire shortening cutter and work evenly into the mixture. The dough is handled just as little as possible."

"The pie crust goes into the pan, then the already cooked and seasoned chicken, and then the rich yellow gravy, then more pie crust. Paint the crust with a pastry brush dipped into an egg and burnt sugar mixture."

Pop got this burnt sugar coloring idea from whisky makers when he worked in Walkerville, Ont.

Pop O'Brien's story seems to say "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again." Success has come to him in his seventies and eighties, but he has no sound a philosophy to succumb to suggestions that he build a chain of chicken pie plants across the U.S.A. He is more interested in making good pies than in making money."

His father was Jim O'Brien of Stouffville, a man of many trades and many abilities and father of 11 children. Six are gone. There remain, besides "Pop," Mrs. Thompson and Herb, O'Brien of Newmarket, Mrs. A. J. Brace (her husband a well-known missionary), Toronto, and Oscar O'Brien, a Chicago insurance adjuster.

"Pop" has two daughters and several grandchildren. He's enjoying his short holiday, but he is getting anxious to be back at his work. In the winter time there are eggs to sell.

The Common Round

THE PRODIGAL CAT

By Isabel Inglis Colville

"Where's Speck this morning?" asked the man of the house, as he sat down to breakfast one morning last week and looked round for the cat, who usually sits at his feet and carries on a conversation in assorted meows.

"I've been listening for his cry at the door, but I'm afraid Spot has been fighting him again," said I.

"Well, I'm not going to have Speck intimidated," said friend husband, as he slapped on his hat as if he were putting an extinguisher on the erring Spot.

"Maybe he'll be here when you get home," I told him without much conviction, for I had a feeling that Speck's feelings were hurt and that he had run away from home.

"Where's Speck?" asked mother, very much like an echo of the first inquiry that morning. Before I could answer, Spot appeared on the scene and mother turned on him with a stern "What have you done with Speck?"

Spot, looking smug and disdainful at the same time, walked to where his breakfast waited, ate it placidly and then proceeded to wash his face, even behind his ears, giving us a triumphant look every now and then.

"You don't deserve breakfast, or anything else," said mother, whose special pet Speck happens to be, but Spot only turned his back in a very disrespectful manner and began to sing himself to sleep.

The day wore on, with no sign of the absent one. "He's been run over," said mother gloomily.

"He's afraid of Spot and gone off to find a new home," predicted the man of the house, while I stuck to my opinion that he would come home. Of course, the suspense was bad for my morale and I sent two letters away in the wrong envelopes, took a magazine to a friend then on leaving her home picked it up and brought it home again, and when someone told me they enjoyed a poem of mine they'd seen in a magazine, I said "Yes, wasn't it splendid?" and never thought of what the question had been till hours afterwards.

Two mornings later I was getting breakfast. Outside, the wind howled through the spruce trees like a lost soul, and the darkness seemed to press in against the windows, and suddenly I heard a familiar call.

"It's Speck," I yelled, as I dashed for the door, and in walked the truant. Sitting in the middle of the floor he told a tale of woe and tragedy that was appalling in length and then, having relieved his mind, he ate three plates of food and drank two saucers of milk and retired to his cushion for a peaceful morning.

Suddenly, he seemed to remember a hunt he hadn't finished and dashed down cellar. Spot came in, but I paid no particular attention to him, and was peacefully and drowsily making a pie when the most unearthly screams issued from the cellar.

"What in the name of mercy is that?" gasped mother, as I abandoned my pastry and made ready to join the fray.

When I reached the cellar I looked about for the source of the riot, while the duet continued—one voice the high soprano of early cathood, the other the well trained bass of a cat of maturer years and much practice in back fence harmony.

Then I became conscious of a sort of earthquake effect proceeding from a large carton.

First heads, then tails appeared in view and then a whirling mass of fur that seemed to have neither head nor tail.

Not knowing exactly how to begin the attack, I joined my voice to the chorus, giving a trio effect. But although it's been said that "music hath charms to soothe the savage beast," mine must have been lacking in charm, for ever fiercer raked the fight, so I had recourse to something I don't often do to cats—I whistled. Have you ever seen how it terrifies them? Like oil on troubled waters or like the siren before an air raid—I don't know which—so the whistle acted on the combatants. Out of the carton they flew—nor stood upon their going. Up the stairs they flew—one to bang open the screen door and seek the great—and safe—out-of-doors, the other to hide in the darkest corner of the living-room.

"Cats!" said I, as I looked at my hands to which pie crust still clung.

"Cats!" echoed mother, as she sat down somewhat limply to recover from having Spot in his haste fly between her feet.

"But it WAS funny—those voices," said I, remembering the trio.

"If it was funny," said poor mother, "then I've lost my sense of humor, and you know I never cared for circuses anyway."

"Anyway, Speck's home," I told my better half as we recounted the doings of Catania.

"For how long?" asked he skeptically, and, as it happened, prophetically, for next day he was gone again, but by dint of telephoning our neighbors we found him and were informed he was visiting two young cats and having a glorious time.

So now he spends three days at home and one away. He eats and sleeps all the time he's at home and plays all the time he's away.

It may be all right, but prodigals are apt to get into trouble. Let's hope he

POLICE COURT

POLICE PUT MONEY IN POCKET OF ACCUSED

Pleading guilty in Newmarket police court on Tuesday to a charge of unlawfully having in his possession a quantity of liquor not purchased in accordance with the provisions of the Liquor Control Act, John Doble, 35, was fined $100 and costs or one month in jail. In addition his wife, Magistrate W. F. Woodliffe ordered the accused's liquor confiscated and his house declared a public place. A charge of selling liquor, to which the defendant pleaded not guilty, was withdrawn.

According to Detective W. E.

Martindale of the York county police, Cpl. J. B. Homan of the military police and Constable E. M. Major went to the home of Mr. Doble on Sept. 6 with two marked bills.

"Ten minutes later Constable Wm. Hill and myself entered the premises and found Mr. and Mrs. Doble and the two officers," testified the detective. "Each officer had a quart bottle of beer. I searched Mr. Doble and found two bills whose numbers I had previously noted. On searching the place we found five dozen quarts of ale besides the two the officers had."

"Do you know the business of the accused?" questioned Crown Attorney N. L. Mathews, K.C.

"No, only what I heard," replied the officer.

Constable Major who had obtained from the liquor control board the list of purchases made by the defendant, told his witness that within the period from Aug. 1 to Sept. 6, Mr. Doble had purchased $33.69 worth of liquor and his wife $17.00 worth, a total of $50.69. This did not include the liquor found on the premises at the time of the officer's arrival.

"How did the accused purchase the liquor?" asked the crown.

"He always bought it through an agent, never directly," replied the officer. "There were several agents."

The witness went on to say that Mr. Doble told him that he had purchased in Lindsay the liquor which was found on his premises, but that when he checked the warehouses he could not find a record of a purchase made by the defendant in that city.

In his testimony Constable Major told his witness that he and Corporal Homan had gone to the defendant's home on the evening of Sept. 6. He was dressed in civilian clothes and the other officer in military uniform. He said that they talked to Mr. and Mrs. Doble for a while and that Mrs. Doble told them that if they wanted beer they could get it at the hotel. As they were leaving the house Corporal Homan noticed the ice-box near the door and lifting the lid saw a couple of bottles of beer, which Mrs. Doble took out and gave them, refusing to take the money offered her. The officer further testified that Corporal Homan then proceeded to put the bills in the defendant's breast pocket. He could not say who actually put the money in the pocket as both the accused's and the officer's hands made the motion to the pocket at the same time.

"Why, there is no evidence here that he sold liquor," commented Magistrate Woodliffe. "They gave him the money."

The crown agreed with his witness that there was insufficient proof of selling liquor, but pointed out that a more severe penalty should be meted out on the charge of having liquor because the quantity of liquor purchased according to the slips obtained from the liquor control board and the amount of liquor purchased illegally indicated that it was being re-sold.

His worship remanded L. F. Fournier, Newmarket military camp, one week for sentence. The latter was charged with theft of a car, the property of Alex. Hughston, Newmarket, on Oct. 13.

According to Mr. Hughston, who is employed at a local store, he had given the defendant a lift to Aurora a week ago Sunday, at which time he told the soldier that he was welcome to visit his home whenever he liked. The witness stated that Fournier made use of this offer and visited his home on Tuesday evening.

"He asked me for a loan of my car and I let him have it," testified Mr. Hughston. He added that the defendant gave him a dollar for the use of the car and then borrowed it again on Friday evening.

"On Saturday about 12.10 noon he came into the mill and said, 'Dad, I'm going to get your car filled up with gas,'" continued the witness. "He made arrangements to get it filled with gas at the camp at 25 cents a gallon. He said that he'd pay for it and he back in ten minutes. I said alright. I said be sure and be back in ten minutes as I wanted it. He didn't return."

In answer to questions by Crown Attorney N. L. Mathews, K.C., Mr. Hughston stated that he notified the police at about 3.30 Saturday afternoon. He did not see the car again until he identified it at the police station in Toronto. Its battery was dead and the gas tank was empty.

When called to the stand Fournier denied he had any intention of stealing the car when he asked Mr. Hughston for a loan of it. He said that he went to the gas station on Yonge St. and while there several soldiers came along and coaxed him into taking them to Toronto. At first, he refused, then took them into the city. On his way back, three soldiers stopped him in Aurora and made him take them back to Toronto. He said that he had trouble with the car in Toronto and had run out of gas. He had no money to buy gas, or telephone Mr. Hughston.

"Do you think you are being fair to other soldiers at the camp in acting as you did?" asked the crown.

"Do you think the people in Newmarket will be inclined to open their homes to others when you do this sort of thing? I think it is one of the most contemptible cases I've come across."

"I think this is a case where he took the car with the intention of returning it," commented Magistrate Woodliffe. "They gave him the money."

The crown agreed with his witness that there was insufficient proof of selling liquor, but pointed out that a more severe penalty should be meted out on the charge of having liquor because the quantity of liquor purchased according to the slips obtained from the liquor control board and the amount of liquor purchased illegally indicated that it was being re-sold.

WINNERS THIS WEEK GET DOUBLE PASSES TO SEE VIVIAN LEIGH OR INGRID BERGMAN

Thirty-seven contestants puzzled successfully this week and sent in the following correct answers to the words with the missing o's: telephone, downstairs, averaging, fireplace, roosters, counters, wonderful, ornaments and location. The tenth scrambled word was missing as well as the o's last week and the contestants didn't fail to point this out, either.

Mrs. W. S. Perrin, Newmarket business woman, drew the five winners as follows: Mrs. J. L. Smith, Queensville, Mrs. W. Codlin, Newmarket, Milton Gibney, Holt, Wm. H. Smith, R.R. 1, Queensville, and Mrs. Elias Smart, Newmarket. These five people win double passes to the Strand theatre for next week and may attend either next Tuesday evening or next Thursday evening. On Tuesday evening the pictures are the much-talked-of new comedy, "When Ladies Meet," starring Joan Crawford, Greer Garson and Robert Taylor, and the East Side Kids in "Pride of the Bowery." On Thursday evening the pictures (changed since the announcement last week) are Sonja Henie and John Payne in "Sun Valley Serenade," and Frank Buck's "Jungle Cavalcade." They may obtain their passes any evening at the theatre or on the evening they attend.

THIS WEEK'S CONTEST

Five winners of this week's contest will receive double passes to the Strand for Tuesday, Nov. 4, to see the lovely Vivian Leigh and Laurence Olivier in "That Hamilton Woman" and Roger Pryor in "The Richest Man in Town," or for Thursday, Nov. 6, to see Robert Montgomery and Ingrid Bergman in "Rage in Heaven" and Mary Martin and Don Ameche in "Kiss the Boys Goodbye." Either of these evenings promises an exceptional program of movie entertainment. Answers to the contest must reach The Era office by Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock, D.S.T. If more than five send in correct answers a Newmarket business man will be asked to draw the winners.

There are ten words to unscramble this week. When the words were scrambled the second letter of each word was left out, so the ten scrambled words each contain one letter less than the ten proper words in the classified columns. Here they are: hugredboof, ritsnp, moaltse, neisegn, utefim, tressms, lagtnem, aswrgesa, nirgnn, aboralsen.

In Memoriam

Alderson - In loving memory of a dear husband, Thomas Alderson, who was called to a higher life, Oct. 25, 1940.

Beside your grave I often stand With heart both crushed and sore But in the gloom the sweet words come, Not lost, but gone before.

God alone knows how much I miss you,

He counts the tears I shed And whispers, he's only sleeping.

Your loved one is not dead. And pray to God each day, And when God calls me home to you

Your smile will guide the way.

Sadly missed by a lonely wife.

Alderson - In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Thos. Alderson, who passed away Oct. 25, 1940.

God knows how much I miss him Never shall his memory fade. Loving thoughts shall ever wander To the spot where he is laid.

Ever remembered and sadly missed by Alma, Garfield and Donnie.

O'Brien - In loving memory of a dear husband and father, John H. O'Brien, who passed away Oct. 25, 1937.

Sweet is the grave where you are laid, Many a visit in silence is paid; To lay down a flower in remembrance of thee, Never forgotten, and never shall be.

Lovingly remembered by wife and family.

O'Brien - In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, John H. O'Brien, who passed away Oct. 25, 1937.

Rest, dear Dad, your troubles are o'er, Your willing hands will work no more. You did not fail to do your best, You worked so hard for those you left.

Ever remembered by Marguerite, Allan and grandson, Jimmie.

Thompson - In loving memory of a dear husband and father, John D. Thompson, who passed away Oct. 21, 1940.

There is a wife who misses you sadly, And finds the time long since you went. And I think of you daily and hourly, But try to be brave and content.

For years we journeyed together Heart in hand and hand in hand, Though you were the first to journey.

To that bright and better land, Will you watch and wait my coming When my lonely life is o'er, Will you come and meet me, husband, When I reach that silent shore.

Sadly missed by wife.

Thompson - In loving memory of a dear father, John D. Thompson, who passed away Oct. 24, 1940.

A wonderful father we think of you in memories that are fond and true, There wasn't a thing too big or too small, That you wouldn't try to do for us all.

We have lost, but God has gained. Some day we hope to meet him. Some day we know not when To clasp his hand in the better land.

Never to part again, Ever remembered by Fred, Cora and family.

ABSOLVE DRIVER

crushed when she was pulled along by the wheels of the truck. Death had been caused by injuries and shock from the accident, he thought.

Mrs. John Dodd, who was walking north on Yonge St., saw the accident from in front of Wait's service station. She said cars were parked on both sides of the street.

"I saw her starting to run across the street from behind a parked car," she said. "I felt she had made a mistake. I saw the truck coming from the north and knew she couldn't make it. She was nearer the west side of the street when I first saw her. The truck was not going fast. It looked as if she ran into the side of the truck. It knocked her over and under the back wheel. The hind wheels didn't pass over her. She seemed to slide along with the truck."

In reply to Mr. Mathews she said, "I think she became confused. I had stood still. I think the driver tried to avoid her or else she would have been hit head on."

Mrs. William Seaton, who was coming north on the west side of the street, also saw the fatality.

"I noticed her come straight out of the store," she said. "Her white hair attracted my attention. She took a few steps, stopped and then started out across the road."

The truck she said was not going too fast and was about opposite the north end of Dawson's Grill when Miss Caister attempted to cross the street.

John Bowser, who had just come out of his store, did not see the accident but heard the brakes scream. He told of finding her under the front left wheel.

Hold Freethy, driver of the truck, said he was only going about 20 miles an hour. He had sounded his horn and when he saw it was going to do no good applied his brakes.

"I was only about 40 feet away," he stated. "She didn't lift her head but seemed to brush my door and hit the corner of the truck rack. I couldn't go east because cars were coming north. I swerved to the right as soon as I cleared the parked cars on the west side."

Mrs. Harold Freethy and Hugh Adair, an employee, who were both riding in the front seat, corroborated Mr. Freethy's statements and explanation of the accident. Mrs. Freethy said, "If she had stopped when we sounded the horn there would have been no accident."

Chief of Police, Fisher Dunham told of measuring the width of the streets and the points of evidence described by Freethy. The pavement had been slippery and Mr. Freethy was sober. His truck appeared to be in perfect condition and he had supplied full information. He had allowed the driver to proceed following the fatality.

STUDENTS SEE DISPLAY OF MECHANIZED FORCES

On Sunday evening the young people of Aurora United church took charge of the service. The theme of the meeting was, "Well, after all, why be gay?" Taking part in the service were Arnold Miller, Barbara Walker and Anna Duffin. Vera Walker and Edith Richards sang a duet and Bill Thompson gave a eulphonic solo.

The members of the mission band of Aurora United church held a sale of peanuts to raise funds for church purposes, under the direction of Mrs. E. Russell, Saturday.

The youthful salesmen did a good job and netted $12.50 for their efforts. The peanut vendors included David Summers, Clifford Case, Eugene Underhill, Paul Roussel, Malcolm Urquhart, Elizabeth Devins, Marie Fierheller, Joyce Seaton, June Badger, Barbara Bowman and Florence Bell.

YEAR BOOK INCLUDES NATIONAL REGISTRATION

The publication of the 1941 edition of the Canada Year Book is announced by the dominion bureau of statistics. The Canada Year Book is the official statistical annual of the country and contains a thoroughly up-to-date account of the natural resources of the dominion and their development, the history of the country, its demography, the different branches of production, trade, transportation, finance, education etc. In brief, a comprehensive study within the limits of a single volume of the social and economic condition of the dominion. This new edition has been thoroughly revised throughout and includes in all its chapters the latest information available up to the date of going to press.

The 1941 Canada Year Book extends to over 1,000 pages, dealing with all phases of the national life and more especially with those susceptible of statistical measurement. A statistical summary of the progress of Canada is included in the introductory matter. This gives a picture in figures of the remarkable progress that the country has made since the first census of the dominion was taken in 1871, seventy years ago.

There are eight special articles as follows: The National Registration 1940, at pages 70-72; Some Effects of the War on Canadian Agriculture, at pages 12-14; The Effects of Government War-time Expenditure on the Construction Industry, at pages 366-368; Pre-war Civil Aviation and the Defence Program, at pages 605-612; The War-Time Functions of a Central Bank, pages 502-504; War-Time Control under the Foreign Exchange Control Board, pages 530-535; Recent Advances in the Field of Education in Canada, pages 576-583; and a special war chronology that appears as Appendix I to the volume.

Persons requiring the Year Book may obtain it from the King's Printer, Ottawa, as long as the supply lasts, at the price of $1.50 per copy; this covers merely the cost of paper, printing and binding. By a special concession, a limited number of paper-bound copies have been set aside for ministers of religion, bona fide students and school teachers, who may obtain such copies at the nominal price of 50 cents each, but application for these special copies should be directed to the dominion statistician, dominion bureau of statistics, Ottawa.

news, they want to see cash entries, they want weekly records of papers printed, spoiled, given away, sent to advertisers or correspondents, or unsold.

It means a lot of detailed work and record-keeping, but it is what advertisers are demanding.

Next week The Era will publish circulation figures for the six months period ending Sept. 30. These figures will show an increase of about 50 paid copies per week. This is an average increase for that entire period of 26 weeks.

That will make a net paid average circulation of about 1,275. That is, let it be repeated, not one week's sales, but a performance repeated for 26 weeks.

Naturally, the circulation was higher in some weeks than in others. In fact, it was climbing steadily throughout the entire period. The net paid actual average for September was 1,370, or 100 more than the average for the six months.

This doesn't include correspondents' or advertisers' copies, of course.

The average net paid circulation for the town of Newmarket during the month of September was 507. This was made up of 167 copies going to paid subscribers through the post office and 340 single copies sold for five cents a copy by stores and boys. One store takes 100 copies weekly at the present time.

Some of these store copies undoubtedly go to country people, but in addition to these 507 copies there are service copies going to Newmarket advertisers. These copies, which are not counted in paid circulation, would make up for copies purchased in Newmarket stores by out-of-town residents.

A paid circulation of 500 in a town of 800 homes is no mean achievement. It is no exaggeration to say that more than half the homes of the town buy The Era, and that most of the people of Newmarket, some of them reading the public library copy, some of them reading a neighbor's copy, read The Era every week.

Nevertheless, The Era still has a long road to travel to attain the circulation it should have for profitable operation and high service to the people of Newmarket and district.

In the meantime, the publishers are highly appreciative of the continued confidence and approval of the splendid people of a splendid town and district.

A.B.C. detailed reports are available to advertisers on request.

ONLY ONE RECORD FALLS AT AURORA

Earl Robson won the senior boys' title at the Aurora public school track and field meet Thursday with Douglas Watson, Jim Bryan and Ernie Ellis close on his heels.

Robson cracked the record in the standing broad jump with a leap of 7' 10 1/2", the only record to fall throughout the day.

Patsy Sutton won the senior girls' title, with the Egan sisters giving her some spirited opposition. Bill Mundell won the boys' intermediate section with ease as he went to the starting line six times and was victorious on the fourth time.

Hughie Cousins, Walter Bunn and Tommy Brodie were his closest rivals.

Clair Bryn won the intermediate girls' class, with Veima Pugh and Mary Thomas battling hard.

In the junior section Hughie McEneaney and Ethel Thompson were adjudged the winners as they outclassed their fields. Joyce Nesbitt, who entered in only two events, was the runner-up in the girls' section with 10 points.

For weeks previous to the meet events were run off daily in the recess periods and for those who were not successful in reaching the finals a consolation field day was held in the morning.

Principal John G. McDonald, Delroy Babcock, Donald Webster, Miss Helen Boynton and Miss Constance Willis, with the help of the rest of the staff, supervised things to perfection.

ABSOLVE DRIVER IN YONGE ST. FATALITY

A coronor's jury sitting last Friday evening to inquire into the circumstances surrounding the death of Miss Elizabeth Caister, aged Aurora resident, who was killed on Oct. 7 on Yonge St., decided that Harold Freethy of Grey county, driver of the truck involved, was not to blame.

Coroner Dr. C. J. Devins presided, with N. L. Mathews, K.C., of Newmarket, representing the crown. J. H. Knowles was foreman of the jury, while other members were William Mount, A. M. Kirkwood, N. E. Eade and W. C. White.

F. D. Lacey, Aurora grocer, told of knowing the deceased and identifying her body. Miss Caister had sought refuge from the rain in his store and when the rain stopped had left the store to cross Yonge St. He described her as being "fully capable of crossing the street." He had not seen the accident, but told of seeing her under the truck immediately afterwards. She lived for about 15 minutes.

Garfield Barranger told of taking pictures of the scene of the accident and these were placed in the record as exhibits. He was complimented by the crown for his work under poor conditions.

Dr. G. W. Williams, who was called to the scene of the accident, said in his opinion the cause of death had been an internal hemorrhage.

"Two fingers were lacerated, there was a deep scalp wound and a few bruises, but none of these were sufficient to cause death," he said. "It looks to me as if she had been

JOS. JARDINE, CONSTABLE

DOWN THE CENTRE

Charlie Sweeney, this year's coach of St. Andrew's College footballers, is entitled to mention for the way he has whipped his team into shape. Two important wins over U.T.S. and Trinity College have been scored in a row, both unexpected. At the start of the season, along with many others, we were doubtful if Charlie could do Bobbie Porter's job, but the Andreams have looked well to date. No matter what the results may be against Ridley and Toronto U.C.C., he has earned his spurs in a difficult assignment.

Lou Hayman, coach of the mighty Argos, handled the U.T.S. team here and to be quite frank, altho' loaded with experienced players, they showed very little football brains. Their passing attack bogged at the wrong time and their plays were poorly executed. Hayman tore his hair in disgust.

Marj. McCarnan, the intermediate batting champion of Sunnyside, is being sought after by both Sunday Morning Class, the current senior winners, and their Big Store rivals. The latter are said to have the inside track but one thing is certain, Newmarket will have a representative in the fastest girls' baseball in Ontario and at the softball world series too, and Marj. has already demonstrated that she will be able to hold her own in class like that.

Jimmy Lowe is a bit in the mystic class these days and altho' we've had several of our operatives busy on the job he hasn't yet been definitely located. He finished the season with Brantford in softball and after being counted on to lead the Lions into the junior A series he up and left the telephone city. It was rumored that he had gone to Hamilton to play senior B there, although they are counting on a strong junior B team. St. Catharines, where it was hinted that he might be heading, haven't seen him yet.

Brantford is a farm club for the Detroit Redwings and we don't think that Lowe will have cut this association. Guelph had a similar arrangement last year and Roy Mason may have a secret one this year too. If Lowe isn't in Hamilton, Guelph is a fair bet, because things are on the move there and taking a player from the Brants would be considered quite the thing.

Markham are losing no time getting ready for hockey of some sort this year. Already they have practiced at Ravina rink and will make regular trips. Of course they have the necessary sugar in the kitty to do all this. The team will enter the S.P.A. junior series and play with all of last year's players who are of age or over-age.

In this series, as perhaps you've noticed, a good many boys who are ineligible by reason of age or residence play for a team in the pre-season tournament. It is definitely unethical but an accepted thing, since no certificates are signed and the clubs are not asked to vouch for their players. Two years ago Aurora, who has used over-age players in the S.P.A., happened to have a bunch of boys who were all O.K. and they were kept out of the final round by reason of Waterloo using Malcheske, who was too old. He was barred from the finals by the O.H.A. but that did Aurora no good.

Getting back to Markham, however, the odds appear to be about even for a junior and intermediate entry too. Among the juniors at the practice were Bowdway, Bagbison, Meharg, Rowe, Northcutt, Watson and Wetherill, while Coach Ernie Lawrence, Hunter, Bob Bangay, Bill and Austin Baker and Bill Hood, who had a whirl with Tigers two years ago and several others, both above and below the 20-year mark, were also out.

Ronnie O'Dell, the Richmond Hill softballer, will walk that last long awful mile to the altar early in November. The lucky gal hails from Richmond Hill.

Artie Consaul, who tended goal for Barrie two years ago, and has twice been at Newmarket camp, has gone into active service with the Essex Scottish.

Pete Chomashyn, who was on the same Barrie team, is another of the Colts who are soldiering full-time. Pete, who was a pal of Frank Michanuk's, is with an infantry regiment at Borden.

Jack Evelyn of Elgin Mills, who was assistant pro at the Summit golf club, arrived overseas with an artillery unit a few weeks ago.

Pepper Martin is again featuring at rugby. Martin is functioning at quarterback for Queen's University in the Kingston Inter-city series, which features Royal Military College, Kingston Grads and an army entry. The tricolor boys are unbeaten as yet and Martin has been spurring them on to victory. With Kingston now entered in the O.H.A. senior series, we'll be able to see Pepper in action when he comes to the Gardens to play Marlboros.

Sutton Juniors are said to be definitely out of O.H.A. hockey, but a juvenile group will probably be provided to keep the younger lads out of mischief.

A brother of the stalwart Bud. Ivan Gilbey, who was pretty good with the junior Greenshirts, has intimated already that he will seek a spot with Aurora juniors, which is a good need. Charlie Rowntree is pretty high on the youngsters' ability.

Brian Thompson, the lad that all the fuss between the Redmen and Sutton was about and just about the top right-winger of the circuit last year, is another sniper that will be sought after by the local hockey moguls and likely to be landed too.

Al. Todd, who played for Midland juniors against Aurora two years ago, is now located in Brantford and should make the grade. Among others imported are Fred Giesbrecht from Pembroke, a brother of Detroit's Gus Giesbrecht, Halliday, the Etobicoke goaltender, Simpson of Young Rangers, Quackenbush of Native Sons, and so on far into the night. Detroit Redwings, looking for a hockey Hank Greenberg with box office appeal, are adding them a Jewish defenseman from Winnipeg.

Bruce Cuttling, who understudied Frankie Carr last year at Newmarket, is working at Nobel and will probably try out for Parry Sound, who are expecting to have a smart team. However, things take funny turns and already the Sounders have lost two of their best boys to Hamilton.

Flemmy Burlington of Owen Sound is supposed to be at Belleville now, and not Niagara Falls. The said Burlington, if it were for the fact he has only one eye, would have been in the big-time. Tommy hasn't done things by halves, however, he's taken his wing-mates, Shears and White, with him. The latter you may remember as the star of Orillia juniors when they just about put quietus on Aurora juniors a few years back.

Dick Schud is mentioned in dispatches as being counted on for duty by Oshawa Generals, with whom he played last year. If Schud is still eligible for junior hockey, then the age of miracles has arrived. Schud played for Markham for three years in the local group and plus another year with Oshawa, and he never looked like a juvenile when he was around these parts. Two years ago the Newmarket Redmen were certain they had the goods on the Highland Creek lad but made no use of their knowledge. Strange things indeed happen in junior A hockey.

Bob Benville was the victim of a weird decision on Saturday night's Port York armory sports card. We say this after due consideration and after fanning it over with neutral spectators. In the first round he dropped Cannata to the mat for two short counts. The second round was even, and in the third on the advice of his seconds he kept out of the way of the harder hitting Irishier. Cannata was the aggressor, most of the fight but landed few clean blows and Bob's left was working in rapier-like fashion. There was a howl went up as the decision was given.

The Irish fighters, by the way, swept the entire card and they deserve the edge for their boys had taken the events seriously and had trained accordingly, which is more than can be said for some of the other entries, who had no condition and must have done their training in the messes and pubs. On the whole, the bouts were surprisingly good.

It was discouraging on Monday night to see so few at a hockey meeting. However, we weren't exactly surprised. Last year there were several tries before the boys rallied around. Next Monday they meet again and surely some of those fellows who are so quick to criticize or knock will be on hand to see that everything suits them. Regardless of the crowd attending, Aurora definitely will have a junior entry.

"Completely cheese!" is the new expression in war-time jargon for being fed-up with everything. We had a letter from a lad overseas who proceeded to initiate us into the mysteries of modern English as she is spoke among the troops at least! A "sewing kit" is the new word for wife. The pubs are called "dog houses." Identification disks are known as "dog tags." A portable radio is a "walkie-talkie." Diving bombing is described as "cuckooing" laying their eggs. "Paul Pry" means a searchlight. Balloons are called "fat friends."

We don't know the particular significance but "Behold the Nue-

PUPILS ARE PROUD OF SCHOOL GROUNDS

Teachers and pupils of Holland Landing school were proud this year of their attractive school grounds, with their flower beds and neat landscaping, a view of which is shown above. Under the direction of the school principal, Wm. Blackshaw, the boys and girls did a great deal of this work themselves in school hours, in connection with their studies in agriculture. Miss M. A. Kendrick teaches the junior room of the school. Photo of Mr. Blackshaw by Budd Studio.

EVERSLEY REVISITS EVERSLEY AFTER 21 YEARS

The potato-diggers have been as busy as the weather will allow, and gradually the autumn crops are being harvested.

The apple crop in this district is very small. Most of the apples were shaken down by the wind-storm. Some of the neighbors have had their fallen apples made into apple butter at a cider and apple butter mill in Markham.

The annual Bible Society meeting for Temperance Week, King and Oak Ridges was held in the splendid new parish hall belonging to St. John's church, Oak Ridges. Rev. She visited Mrs. Leslie at Georgetown and Mrs. Leslie, with her daughter and cousin, Miss Dolson, motored Mrs. Wells to King to visit her friends here, making her headquarters at Mrs. A. McClure's. She was a happy visitor at Eversley church on Sunday night, meeting old friends.

The well-kept grounds and cheery rooms were much admired by the members. In the absence of the president, Mrs. Fred Reid, the chair was taken by Vice-President Mrs. Ridley for the program of music and readings. Before leaving, candy was distributed to those in the home.

Those attending the plowing match at Peterboro last week were Mr. and Mrs. George Sproxtton, Jack Sproxtton, Delbert and Bill Dike, Ray McClure, Mr. and Mrs. Edson Johnson, Beth and Donald Johnson.

Mrs. Fred Reid spent a few days with her mother, Mrs. Roffey of Markham, while her brother, Fred Roffey, who received his wings a short time ago, was home on leave.

The hot turkey supper held last Thursday evening was a decided success. Over 450 people were present and enjoyed a sumptuous meal. Music provided by the Johnston family was much enjoyed, followed by a program provided by a commercial company.

The big barn dance held on Fennell Rothwell's farm was such a success for the war work of the Snowball Women's Institute that Mr. Rothwell has again kindly offered the ladies one more big night, to be held in his new steel barn, with an excellent floor, on Friday evening, Oct. 21.

The Institute ladies take this opportunity of inviting everyone to come out and enjoy a good evening's fun and at the same time help a very worthy cause.

Old Temperance Story
Said Not Out Of Date

"Buy Your Own Cherries" is an old, old temperance story, but just because it is old does not mean that it has lost its worth, because the problem is very much alive today," Rev. R.
J. Koffend, of Toronto, told a group of young people gathered at St. Andrew's Presbyterian church on Tuesday evening. Mr.
Koffend is the father of the pastor and gave an illustrated lecture.

"During the last war Lloyd George said that the British were fighting two enemies, the Germans and the drink and he thought the second evil was worse than the first," said Mr.
Koffend.

"Hitler has made taboo the drink that the Germans love so because he realizes that drink reduces the morale, and injures health, and he does not countenance very much indulgence in the stuff that made Milwaukee famous and the stuff that spoils men today."

Mr. Koffend said that he would like to try to touch the pulse of the people in Newmarket in the hope that there would be something done to make it easier for things to go right in this campaign and harder to go wrong.

The story, "Buy Your Own Cherries," is the story of John and Mary Lewis and their four children.

The story opens with John Lewis counting his "pennies" to see if he had enough to buy a "pint" to quench his thirst. But on entering the "pub" his eye fell on a dish of delicious looking cherries that made his "mouth water," and he was about to take one when the landlady told him she had bought the cherries for her own children and if he wanted any he could "buy his own cherries."

John Lewis "bought his own cherries" and thinking it over he decided that after that he would also having a euchre in the parish hall on Friday evening, Oct.

24, to raise money for the Chris-mas boxes. Everyone is welcome.

"buy his own cherries" for his own children and not for the landlady's children.

As the story unfolded it showed John Lewis paying off his bill at the "pub" and refusing to be coaxed by the landlady, who realized her mistake in refusing him the cherries, to have more ale or any of her cherries.

It showed his wife's surprise at getting all of her husband's pay, instead of what was left after he had spent most of it on beer, the surprise of the children at their parents going out marketing together instead of quarreling, and their greater surprise at the "whoppin'" leg of mutton, the fresh vegetables and all the other good things they had never had before.

The story ended by telling how John Lewis was able to buy better clothes for his children, his wife and himself, how he soon was able to move into a better house in a better section of the city, how he was made foreman by dint of his better work and good behavior, how he was able to educate his children, and how he eventually owned enough houses to keep his family comfortably without working himself.

The moral of the story, said
Mr. Koffend, was not how much you earned, but what you did with what you earned.

Weds In Church Built By Great-Grandfather

St. James' Anglican church, Sharon, where a wedding of wide interest took place on Saturday, Oct. 11, was built by the bride's great-grandfather. It was also the church in which her father and mother took their marriage vows. The bride's wedding ring was made from the ring worn by her grandmother, with the original engraving left inside.

The bride was Miss Gertrude Willson Grose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard D. Grose of Sharon, and she was married to Thomas Fuller Lowndes of Keswick, son of Mrs. Rawlins Lowndes of Indian Rd., Toronto.

The church was decorated with colored autumn leaves, gladioli and varied asters, and the ceremony was conducted by Rev. A. J. Forte. Mr. Phil Sawford of Toronto played the wedding music.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of white satin, scalloped and buttoned down the front, with a very full skirt, a chapel veil of bridal illusion with Victorian poke bonnet of bridal satin, and carried an ivory prayer-book with bouvardia and little pink roses.

Her sister, Miss Kathleen Grose, was bridesmaid, wearing a blue taffeta trimmed with fuchsia velvet and scalloped poke bonnet of fuchsia velvet, and carrying a Victorian nosegay. John Lowndes, R.C.A.F., was best man and the ushers were Messrs. John Montgomery and Harry Bolton.

The reception was held at the bride's home, where her mother received in a beige lace dress with beige hat and corsage of apricot roses. The groom's mother assisted, wearing a black dress, black hat and corsage of orchid scabiosa and pale yellow roses.

MAY EMPLOY WOMEN AS 1941 POLL CLERKS

The annual by-law setting the nomination date for mayor, reeve, deputy-revee, councillors and three public school trustees for Friday, Nov. 21, in the town hall, was passed by the town council on Monday evening. Election day is to be on Dec. 1, on which date voting under the Liquor Control Act will also take place. Time for voting is set from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. D.S.T.

N. L. Mathews, K.C., town clerk and solicitor, told the council that instead of seven polling-booths, as was the custom of previous years, there would be three in each ward, nine in all. He added that in view of the fact that the Temperance hall was in use this year it was suggested that the fire engine be moved and the fire hall be used as a polling-booth in St. Patrick's ward. The council approved this suggestion.

The council also approved of the returning officer, Mr. Muldoon, obtaining the same polling clerks and deputy-returning officers as last year and to replace those who were not available. If there is difficulty in getting suitable and efficient polling clerks, women may be obtained.

Town Would Get $100 Out Of Every $13,333

The question of to what extent will the municipal corporation benefit in the event of establishment of beverage rooms in Newmarket may enter into the decision.

The Era has secured the following information about the municipal share in the tax. The municipality receives 20 percent of the provincial tax, which is six cents per gallon.

The sale of 133,333 glasses of beer, or 8,333 gallons, would mean a revenue of $500 to the province, of which the province would pay $100 to the town.

In other words, at ten cents a glass, for every $13,333 worth of beer which citizens and visitors purchased in Newmarket beverage rooms, the municipal corporation would receive $100.
